(Lights up. KENTON and HAILEY are already onstage.)

KENTON: Do you know me?

HAILEY: Do you know me?

KENTON: You think you do.

HAILEY: That's what you think.

KENTON: But you're wrong.

HAILEY: You think you know what I'll do next.

KENTON: But you don't.

HAILEY: You think you know how much I'm hurting inside.

KENTON: But you can't.

HAILEY: You think you're helping me when you ask me how I'm doing.

KENTON: But you aren't.

HAILEY: You think you know so much.

KENTON: And you haven't got a clue.

HAILEY: You've known me for a long time.

KENTON: A really long time.

HAILEY: But have you really?

KENTON: Have you really?

HAILEY: No. You haven't.
